After the Berlin conference, where as Britain's representative he checkmated so iron-willed a diplomat as Bismarck in the latter's desire to dismember Turkey, he returned to England, and was the logical successor of Lord Beaconstield as the leader of the Conservative party. His first term as Premier was brieffrom 1885 to 1886-but in that time he proved himself a great leader, and when the Conservatives returned him to power in 1887, his tenure of office lasted until 1892. Then he gave way to Gladstone and followed him in 1895. The close of the Boer war found him ready to step down from power. This he regarded as the starboard tack. It was a magnificent sight as they plunged seeward in the twelve knot zreeze, pounding fountains of spray from their hows and learning to it until the water swried and bubbled along their lee rails. The crews were piled up along the weather side to hold the great racing machines up.

The few minutes of the thresh to windward were watched with intense interest. Both were footing like mad. They showed yards of their underbedles, and shipped a good deal of spray and some solid water forward.

a good deal of spray and some solid water forward.

But after fifteen minutes of sailing their positions had not varied perceptibly, and there was alarm among the experts. Those who had expected to see the Reliance walk away from her adversary, as a result of last Thursday's showing, were disappointed. The Shamrock hung on with bull-dog tenacity, and tack after tack she seemed to be holding her own. For thirteen miles challenger and challenged fought out the magnificent duel, sailing between two lanes of excursion boats, as free from interference as if they had been in the middle of the Atlantic. All the 'time the wind was increasing, and the white caps were whitening the waves in tumbled ardor.

Orlitical Point.

Critical Point.

Ing the waves in tumbled ardor.

Critical Point.

The critical point in the race came at 12:40 P. M., a little less than two hours after the start. The mark was less than two miles away, and the relative positions of the boats were about the same. Both were on the starboard tack, the Reliance ahead, but to leeward. Suddenly the wind dropped and hauled a trifle to the west. The shift enabled the yachts to head up for the mark, with the Reliance in the lead by about 200 yards. This was the only thing which marred an otherwise truly sailed race. But from that time on the Reliance steadily increased her lead in the windward work until she was three-quarters of a mile ahead. As she rounded the outer mark, the whistles, sirens, bands and the voices of the unnumbered thousands on the excursion fleet swelled into a vast chorus.

Turning for home, her spinnaker boom poised along the mast like a lance at rest, fell to port, and the big sail burst out like a cloud, while at the same moment her enormous balloon lib topsail belied out forward. The smart work of the Yankees cheered the crowd, but a moment afterwards there was dismay, when the guy which held the spinnaker pole parted or was carried away. The enormous sail soared aloft and tumbled over the fib topsail stay, collapsing like an ompty meal sack. But the spar was soon hauled back into place, and then, with a fingle of bells in the engine-rooms, scampered away for the finish line to be in at the death.

Bad Luck.

in at the death. Bad Luck.

Bad Luck.

In setting her balloon jib the Shamrock encountered another piece of had luck. One of the stops would not break out and the sall hung for some minutes like a limp rag on the stay. When both had been squared away for home it was seen that the Reliance was making a runaway race of it. With her crew aft to keep her head up, she skimmed along the surface of the water like a gull with outstretched pinlons, leaving the Shamrock farther and farther astern. The pace was so fast that many of the tugs and not a few of the steam yachts were left behind.

The scene at the condendum and ring. Under her towering cloud of cantagement and rangement and rangement and range left behind.

The scene at the finish was soul-stirring. Under her towering cloud of canvas, rolling rythmically in the swell, the Reliance bounded across the viewless finish line like a queen. The excursion on windward quarter. The official starting time was:

Shamrock III., 11:45:17.
Reliance, 11:45:21.
Both got away on the starboard tack, carrying three lower salls, and club topsails, the Reliance a baby hib topsail. What followed was the prettiest, closest and most hard fought fifteen miles thresh to windward that has been witnessed in these historic waters for many a day. For nearly half an hour they held on one tack, and during all that time the most acute observer could not detect that their relative positions had varied more than half the length of either of them. Shamrock III, held the lead under the lee bow of Reliance, but could not add an inch to it. Neither could Reliance, although in the weather position, get past the leader. Bonts and skippers were evenly matched.

Clear Luck.

Clear Luck.

Clear Luck.

Just about an hour after the start, when the yachts had covered nearly half the distance to the outer mark, opportunity was afforded to note how close the contest really wis. Rellance and Shamrock III, were approaching each other with the former on the starboard tack and having the right of way. As they marred one another it was a question which was leading. Shamrock III, was forced to go about to avoid a collision forced to go about to avoid a collision. One hour's work had given neither the advantage. They held that tack for twenty minutes. Shamrock III, suddenly went about and Rellance followed suit, only to see Shamrock III, return to held former course. Plainly it was Captain former course. Plainly it was Captain Wringe's trick to shake of threatening to blanket the British boat. As soon a blanket the British boat. As soon as blanket in got clear of Rellance, she lay a parallel course. They were southwest of the mark and heading toward the Jersey coast, when the wind suddenly shifted from south southwest to south by west, three points. This placed Rollance in a windward position. It was clear luck, and gave the defender a distinct advantage. Shamrook III, held on her course toward the Jersey shore and Reliance crossed her bow a quarier of a mile to the windward of her. Both boats then made short hitches to the turning mark and Reliance rounded it three minutes and twenty seconds in advance of the challenger. This, with the four seconds loss at the start, gave Reliance three minutes and twenty-four seconds clear gain.

Around the Turn.

Around the Turn.
Once around the mark, Rollance broke out her balloon jib top-sail, swung out her spinnaker pole and broke out her spin-naker for a run dead before the wind to the finish line. The spinnaker pole swung out ahead of her, in the air, and the big sail hung in loose folds across her jib topsail stay. For a minute it looked as though she were in serious difficulty. The pole was hauled aft to its proper position, and the spinnaker began to do its work. Relance was three-quarters of a mile shead when Shamrock III, turned the mark and broke out her balloon jib top-sail. The upper part of it refused to break out and still hung in stops, but only for a few seconds.

a few seconds.

During all of the fifteen mile run which the yachts covered at a twelve knot clip.
Rollance steadily and persistently crawled away from the new hopelessly beaten

Eight minutes and fifty-six seconds later the plucky challenger followed her

SANDY HOOK, N. J., Aug. 22.—Sir Thomas Lipton sald with a smile to the Associated Press correspondent:

"We were beaten fairly and squarely. It was splendld weather and Shamroek did not do as wen as I had expected she would in the race to windward and return. I appreciate the splendld manner in which my boat was handled. Reliance is a wonderful yacht. My connidence in Shamrock, however, is not shaken, and I hope she will yet make a much better showing."

WILL BE REMEASURED

Shamrock Must Be Measured With Anchor Aboard.

Anchor Aboard.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Shamrock III. will be remeasured in Erie Basin Monday morning in the presence of a representative of the Reliance. Lewis Cass Ledyard, chairman of the Racling Committee of the New York Yacht Club, notified Shearman Crawford, vice-commodore of the Royal Ulster Yacht Squadron, to that effect in a telegram, in which it was proposed that the Shamrock III. should start to-day subject to the new measurement to be taken on Monday. This was accepted by Mr. Crawford, who said that the challenger had been measured without anchor and chain, as required by the rules. This oversight was reported by Mr. Crawford to Mr. Iselin and to the Regatta. Committee.

When Shamrock III. was first measured, the hatches had to be removed, and two light-weight men substituted for two heavier ones in the crew, to keep the water line inside of ninety feet. This brought her up to 89,81 feet. The anchor and chain weigh as much as two men, and it is thought that when the yacht is remeasured there will be some difficulty getting inside the water-line limit. (By Associated Press.)
